

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A foundry core material comprising a foundry sand, a binder, and a disintegration additive, where the material is treated to form a solid component of a casting mold. The present invention also provides methods of forming casting materials.